

THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY JULY 2.

There are 132,000 churches, 92,000 ministers, and 10,000,000 church members in this country, in a population of 60,000,000.

Henry George says there is work enough in this country, who wants a job. That is very true, but Henry George is teaching his followers not to work.

They are trying to get a jury in the Chicago boulder case that never heard anything of the county funds. That is the kind of a jury the defense wants.

There is a discussion now going on as to which is the weakest point in the administration. There are so many weak points that it is difficult to determine the greatest.

It has been computed that the death rate of the world is about 67 a minute, 97,700 a day, and 35,639,835 a year, while the birth rate is 70 a minute, 100,800 a day, and 36,792,000 a year.

Jefferson Davis has been heard from on the battle-field order. He says the southerners fought for a principle and that they have not surrendered. In spirit they haven't, and the present democratic administration acknowledges by its acts that the south is in the saddle. Cleveland and Davis are not far apart in their opinions.

It seems that free-delivery service of the post-office department is being for places in which to be established. The superintendent of that branch of the service says that the cities having 10,000 inhabitants and which are entitled to free delivery under the law of the last session of congress, are very backward in calling for the service. They seem to be imitating the example of Jamesville.

There is something beautiful in the story of Charles Cushing Barry's life. He entered the City Bank of Boston as book-keeper, in 1837, fifty years ago, and resigned this week as cashier at the age of 81. At a specially-called meeting of the board of directors he was presented with a handsome silver pitcher in commemoration of the event, and was voted one-half of his present salary as an annuity during his lifetime.

The Bernhard tour, which closed last week, is probably the longest ever undertaken by a large company, if indeed any company at all has made so long a one. It lasted fourteen months, took in part of South and Central America, and covered the whole of the United States. There were 235 performances, and the gross receipts have been more than $1,000,000, while the profits amount to $300,000. Of the latter Bernhard gets $300,000.

If Dr. McGlynn's terms per night for abolishing poverty are the same as those of Henry George it will even be abolished—on the McGlynn point of view.

Yes, both George and Dr. McGlynn are working to abolish poverty from themselves; and they are succeeding admirably. The only two persons who are benefited by their anti-poverty society are Henry George and Dr. McGlynn; and they are growing rich at the expense of their duped followers.

The statement is made that the large natural gas well at Findlay, Ohio, produces by actual measurement 12,000,000 cubic feet a day. Estimating that one ton of coal is equal in heat units to 31 85-1000 cubic feet of Findlay gas, this well discharges the equivalent of nearly 400 tons of coal every twenty-four hours. It is not improbable that 1,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas are discharged each day from wells already drilled, or in round numbers, the equivalent of 30,000 to 35,000 tons of coal.

A WISE SELECTION.

The following endorsement comes from the Evening Wisconsin: "The State Board of Supervision is to be complimented and thanked for its act in appointing Dr. Walter Kompter as superintendent of the Northern Hospital for the insane."

"It is a good service rendered to the whole state as well as to the unfortunate hundreds in the hospital, because the selection of Dr. Kompter assures an administration that will reflect credit upon Wisconsin. He has been tried and proved, and his lively earnestness and enviable reputation that extends far beyond the limits of this state. Since the death of Dr. Gray, of this city, it is doubtful if any alienist in the country ranks higher than Dr. Kompter. The Wisconsin was first among newspapers of the state to urge this appointment, because it believed Dr. Kompter to be beyond comparison the best man for the responsible place. The State Board of Supervision has done well."

A FOOLISH CRAZE.

Mr. Rockefeller bid $100,000 for Millet's "Angels," and Mr. Vanamaker paid $107,000 for Manckey's "Christ before Pilate." It is said that the pictures are worth the money. They are probably worth what millionaires are willing to pay for the paintings; but it will strike level-headed people that a small canvas, even if it be covered with paint by Millet or Manckey or Meissonier, is not aesthetically nor intrinsically worth $100,000. The choicest pictures by no means are the costliest, in a general way; for those spiritual qualities and poetical motives which survive unimpaired through all "bear or bull" movements are not easily discovered by the mercenary eye of traffic, nor by the common run of conventional and imitative purchasers.

A CARD.

All who are suffering from the errors and misadventures of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, lost vitality, and all other ailments, will cure themselves by using the medicine known as "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." It is a medicine that is not only a cure for all the above ailments, but it is also a tonic for the system, and it is also a blood purifier. It is a medicine that is not only a cure for all the above ailments, but it is also a tonic for the system, and it is also a blood purifier. It is a medicine that is not only a cure for all the above ailments, but it is also a tonic for the system, and it is also a blood purifier.

BOODLERS AS INFORMERS.

MEN WHO MAY GO ON THE WITNESS STAND.

Meat Contractor Bipper Tells What He Knows About Cook County Contracts—The Trial.

CHICAGO, July 2.—As the time for the introduction of evidence in the boulder case draws nearer, more interest centers in those of the indicted party who may turn informers. At the same time, those of the boulder case who have no hope of being allowed to turn State's evidence get more anxious. It is now believed several of the defendants will go to the stand for the State, but who they all are is an uncertainty. Nothing definite is known as yet about the intentions of Klehm, Casselman and Gels, who, it is said, have consented to plead guilty if they can make some sort of an arrangement to escape the extreme penalty that might follow in the event of a trial. They continue to retain their places in the ranks of the indicted and decline to make any statement about their future actions, but it is known that Klehm at least will turn State's evidence.

Friday was given up to examining testimony, and a great number were examined. Shortly after noon the defense struck a blow against the State, by the introduction of a witness named P. Ryan, a retired grocer of 501 State street, who was suitable, and the four jurors—Jury, Brown, Bangs, and Ryan—were turned over to the State. Mr. Walker testified that he was acquainted with Ryan, and that he was a witness to Ryan's testimony. Ryan testified that he was a witness to Ryan's testimony.

It is a well-deserved compliment to Governor Rusk that his name has been so often mentioned in connection with the presidential question. He has not sought any prominence in this direction, preferring to quietly attend to his official duties. But people think a good deal and very often give expression to their feelings in a way which is as commendable as it is significant.

Almost every mail carries to the executive office letters from persons of more or less prominence, expressing their confidence in him and admiring his wise judgment and remarkable moral courage at a time when the gravity and importance of the situation would have caused most executives to lose heart and entirely fail to meet the emergency, as in the case of Governor Oglesby. But that is not all. His administration of state affairs has been so thoroughly able and wise, with no extravagant schemes and no blunders of any kind, that people outside the state have had their attention attracted to him. If there ever was a man in official life blessed with common sense, personal and moral courage, and integrity that cannot be shaken, and a manhood that cannot be seduced by flattery, that man is Governor Rusk.

He has made himself conspicuous by quietly doing his duty. Public men have watched him; and so when the nomination of 1888 are talked about, it is no wonder that Governor Rusk's name is mentioned. He is one of the best known governors in the United States; and the complimentary and exceedingly friendly letters that could fill any mail are not from partisan friends, but from democrats as well as from republicans and they come from all parts of the country.

A STRANGE STORY.

There is a story told that during the great civil war Mary Van Lew, a Virginia lady, unmarried, was loyal to government. She greatly interested herself in the Union cause, and frequently at the risk of her life she gained valuable information, which was laid before General Grant. In official documents and in other ways the General bore testimony to her devotion and her services. After the war ended he had her appointed post mistress at Richmond, and she had charge of the post-office for eight years. Then General Grant got Miss Van Lew a place in the postoffice department at Washington where the work was easy and in which he believed she would pass the remainder of her days.

But there came a change in the management of the government. In the stamp department in which Miss Van Lew worked, is an ex-rebel named Howard. He is the chief of the department. He was in the rebel navy, going there from the United States naval academy at Annapolis in 1861. President Cleveland heard of this man Howard and gave him this responsible position. The presence of Miss Van Lew in his department, especially because she did the confidential cause mail work in Virginia, seems to have wounded his sensibilities deeply, and he has left no stone unturned to gain her discharge. While not entirely succeeding, he has virtually triumphed, as the change made his equivalent to a dismissal. For several years she had received $1,500 a year, and the man Howard had made application to have her salary cut down to $700, which was intended to humiliate her so that she would quit the department.

There is another side to this strange story. This piece of black ingratitude, met the approval of Postmaster General Vilas. He could have easily prevented this shameful act, but he would not. The evident intention of the administration is to force Miss Van Lew out of the means of earning a living. When one considers what she did during the war for the Union, and what Howard did against the Union, it probably should not create wonder that she has been humiliated. Every month that passes makes more clear than ever, the noble truthfulness of John Sherman's Springfield speech.

THE PACIFIC INQUIRY.

Traveling on Passes and Charging the Government. OMAHA, Neb., July 2.—Before the Pacific Railway Commission Friday Editor Roscoe, editor of the Omaha Bee testified that it has been for years the practice of the United States Marshals for Nebraska to require the traveling train to pay a fee of $100 for each railhead and to charge the Government 10 cents a mile for every mile so traveled. He had himself, seen a Deputy United States Marshal traveling with a pass from the Government, and he learned that the deputy had to share with the marshal the traveling fees allowed by the Government.

Three Children Burned With Oil. PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 2.—During the temporary absence of Mrs. August Bader of Mount Washington, this city, three of her children were fatally burned by an explosion of a can of oil. The little ones, Jennie, Katie and Emily, aged 5, 7, and 2 years, respectively, were playing with a can of petroleum under the stove. It is supposed that they threw some of the oil on the fire and the explosion followed, scattering the burning fluid over their clothes. Their screams attracted the neighbors, who ran to their assistance and extinguished the flames. The children, however, were so badly burned that Jennie and Emily died in great agony in a short time. Katie is still living, but suffering terribly, and will not likely survive the night.

Strike Against Scrubbing Floors. CONNES, N. Y., July 2.—Over 2,000 operatives at the Harmony Mills here struck work, refusing to participate in the semi-annual duty of scrubbing the floors in the vicinity of the looms. Members of the company made plain their intention to close the mills for an indefinite time if a strike occurred, but when the soap for scrubbing purposes was passed around the women declared they would use it. Operatives in three mills are out, and as the usual time for scrubbing the fourth comes on Wednesday next, it is expected that the women will be kept busy scrubbing on that day unless a settlement be reached in the meantime.
